Stuff that helps you in the long term for doing research!

In a Nutshell

Timings, circulation, photocopying, other stuff.

Library Timings

Working days:	8:45 a.m. till 11 p.m.
On Saturdays:	9:00 a.m. till 10 p.m.
On Second Saturdays and Sundays:	10:00 a.m. till 5 p.m.
During Examinations:	8:45 a.m. till 12 p.m.

Book Circulation and Printouts Timings

Working days:	9:00 a.m. till 10:30 p.m.
Second Saturdays and Sundays:	10:15 a.m. till 4:30 p.m.

Library is closed on all public/gazetted holidays.
Vacation timings are updated via mail.

Photocopying/Printout

You may request for a photocopy of any reference materials (books, journals, etc.). However, you are only allowed to take select portions, and you will not be allowed photocopy the whole material.

Photocopies and regular printouts are 1₹ per page (black-and-white). You can take printouts on both sides as well.

Colour printouts cost 15₹ per page.

For printing out, send your docs to nualslibrary@gmail.com.
(click the mail address to send)

Issuance of Books

Books are issued to LLB students for a time of 7 days, which can be extended through the OPAC (the link to which can be found in your mail once you get a book issued). You may only take up to two books at a time.

For moot courts, you may be issued a Moot Card, which allows you to take 5 books. Books taken with a Moot Card shall be returned within 10 days after the dates of the moot.

LLM students are permitted to take 3 books, for a period of 7 days.

PhD scholars are permitted to take 3 books, for a period of 30 days.

Reference books kept at the first floor, books part of personal collections etc. will not be issued to anyone under any circumstances.

The Analog Corner

Concerned about your horribly high screen time? Do you wish to take a break from technology itself and completely get usurped in a book? The Analog Corner is for you. The Analog Corner has some antique pieces, including a working typewriter, a retro PC and some other stuff (Do kindly note that they are not intended for regular use!)

The Corner also has a replica of the original Constitution of India, which is a bit tattered, so be careful when you turn the pages. The corner is also where you'll find the personal library collection of the famed advocate A G Noorani.

The Discussion Rooms

There are four discussion rooms at the first floor, which provide seclusion for your possible online competitions or group projects. Two rooms are allocated to the LLB batches, and one each to the LLM and Research Scholars.

Fines and Penalties

If you lose a book, you will have to replace it with the latest edition of it. If a book has not been replaced within a month's time of it being reported, you will have to pay the current actual cost of the book plus ⅔rd of the cost, or an amount as fixed by the Registrar/Librarian considering the value and utility of the book.

If an issued book is not returned within the allotted period, an overdue charges of 5₹ per day will be levied.

If you lose your reader ticket, you can apply for another by paying a fine of 100₹.

OPAC and Digital Repository

The OPAC can be accessed via opac.nuals.ac.in or here, whereas the digital repository can be accessed from here. The OPAC is where you can see if a book is available, extend your book loan, among others.

The Digital Repository contains research scholarship for LLM and PhD scholars, including dissertations, theses, projects etc., as well as previous year question papers. Both can only be accessed via the campus network/VPN.

If you forgot your OPAC password, please note to inform the library via mail at library@nuals.ac.in.

Accessing the E-Resources

How to access the e-resources, and how to set up the VPN.

Most of the e-resources have IP-based access, meaning that you have to visit the respective sites through the campus WiFi, or via the VPN. Some resources, such as CaseMine or Lloyds require you to create an account with the NUALS mail ID instead to access.

The VPN is useful when you're out of campus - such as for internships, or if you're doing some vacation research work.

Setting up the VPN

Firstly, install the Check Point VPN Client - download for your operating system here (the link provided on the older guide is way too old and kind of interferes with the new firewall):

Windows

macOS

Android

iOS

When you're installing it in Windows, ensure to select "Check Point Mobile" in the Client Products page. As for the rest of the options, you can just press "Next" and move on.

Once installed, open up “Check Point Mobile” or “Endpoint Security VPN” (depends on your operating system). You will see a little lock on your Taskbar/Menu Bar.

- Right click on it, and click Connect. This will prompt you to configure a new site.
- Once you get to the Site Wizard, fill the Server Address as `14.139.185.174`. You may add a display name if you fancy it, however it is completely optional.
- Just click Next, and voila! You’ve set up the VPN!

Use the same credentials as your WiFi for accessing the VPN. If you forgot, just check the mail that was sent to you in your personal mail ID (not the NUALS mail ID).

What if I use Linux?

If you’re using Linux or if you are one of those “free and open-source software only” freaks you can try out snx-rs. You can check out the guide for setting up snx-rs here.

VPN for Android/iOS

For Android/iOS, check out the official NUALS guide instead (it’s just the same things you have to do, but in a different interface). Find the guide here.

eBook Access

Accessing the eBooks is the same process as the rest by accessing it through the campus network. You can find the list of ebooks from the library section of the NUALS website.

Access to Grammarly

You can access Grammarly's premium features for free, by either signing up with your NUALS mail ID, or alternatively, you might have received a mail in your email regarding Grammarly access, where you just have to accept the invitation.

Checking for Plagiarism

How to use Turnitin and Grammarly to check for plagiarism.

There are mainly two services for getting a plagiarism check for your papers, projects, or any piece of academic work, primarily through Turnitin and Grammarly.

Accessing Turnitin

Usage of Turnitin is governed by a Standard Operating Procedure, which you can read here.

Turnitin should be sparingly used, as you can only use the plagiarism check only twice for a research work.

To get a plagiarism report, you need to mail your work to the library at library@nuals.ac.in, and either Cc it to the appropriate faculty, or have it be forwarded to the library by them. Faculty approval is mandatory for getting a plagiarism report.

The appropriate faculty that you need to have the request recommended by are given below:

For LLB Students

- Your request has to be recommended to the library by your Mentor/ concerned faculty.

For Moot Memorials

- Your request has to be recommended to the library by the Faculty Coordinator of the Moot Court Society.

For LLM/Executive LLM/PG Diploma Students

- Your request has to be recommended to the library by your faculty guide.

For Research Scholars

- PhD Scholars can use the plagiarism check up to three times only for their thesis.
- For other research papers, it shall be only twice.
- Your requests have to be recommended to the library by your PhD guide.

Plagiarism Check via Grammarly

Grammarly has a basic plagiarism checker feature, which while not as elaborate as Turnitin, provides a simple way for checking plagiarism in your work. This is mostly useful for your course projects.

- Upload your document to Grammarly and open it.
- Click the sleuth icon (glasses and hat) to access the plagiarism checker, available on the right sidebar.
- If you did a "classic document upload" instead, select the option that says "Check for AI text & plagiarism" available on the sidebar on the right.

Some Cool Research Tools

Stuff that helps you in the long term for doing research!

This used to be within the library's website, but since it has been long gone, here are some tools that would be useful for research work! Added some extra as well.

Doing and Managing Citations/References

Citations are hard - which is why people made tools that can help with them. Luckily, there are two good citation managers that can make it easier!

MyBib

Visit

MyBib is a very simple citation generator available on the web, with no sign up required. Just paste in your source, and it will automatically fill in the citation as per your requirements.

Zotero

Visit

Zotero is a free references manager and generator - combine it with the browser and Word extensions, and you won't stop using it for your work.

Adding citations is simple - open a doc through your web browser, click on the Zotero extension icon. You'll also have an always available copy on your desktop. When you need to add it to your document, just open up your word processor and click on the "Add Citation" in the Zotero tab.

Some citation methods, such as OSCOLA/Bluebook need to be installed onto Zotero as addons, so keep note of that.

ORCID

Visit

Some journals will ask you to have an ORCID ID when publishing. An ORCID ID is a unique code that identifies you, sort of like a handle, but for the research world. Always good to keep one in hand.

Shodhganga

Visit

This is more useful for PhD scholars, but Shodhganga is essentially an archive of PhD theses across Indian universities (and yes, even the NUALS theses will be uploaded here once its completed).

Notion

Visit

Notion is really powerful - not only is it a good notetaking service, its calendar and mail integrations are pretty nice as well.

The Notion Education plan is available for free for individual students, just by signing up with your NUALS mail ID. Do note that you have to confirm the plan every year (you'll receive a mail when it'll be required.)

After signing up, go to Upgrade Plan, and select "Get free education plan" and you'll have the Education plan forever!

BAILII

Visit

The British and Irish Legal Information Institute (BAILII) provides access to the most comprehensive set of British and Irish primary legal materials that are freely available online.

Justia

Visit

Justia provides free access to US legislation, case law from the both Federal and State-level Courts, as well as access to select law from other American countries.

India Code

Visit

It isn't anything new, but India Code provides access to all Central and State laws, including delegated legislation all in one place.

WIPO Lex

Visit

WIPO Lex serves as the comprehensive, open and free gateway to more than 50,000 legal documents from 200 jurisdictions, spanning patents, copyrights, trademarks, designs, and other IP subject matters.

Wex

Visit

Wex is a free legal dictionary and encyclopedia sponsored and hosted by the Legal Information Institute at Cornell Law School.

EUR-Lex

Visit

EUR-Lex provides access to European Union legislation, including access to the Official Journal of the EU, treaties, preparatory documents, case law, etc.

WorldLII

Visit

The World Legal Information Institute (WorldLII) is a free, independent and non-profit global legal research facility developed collaboratively by the following Legal Information Institutes and other organisations. Some parts might not be quite updated.

Avalon Project

Visit

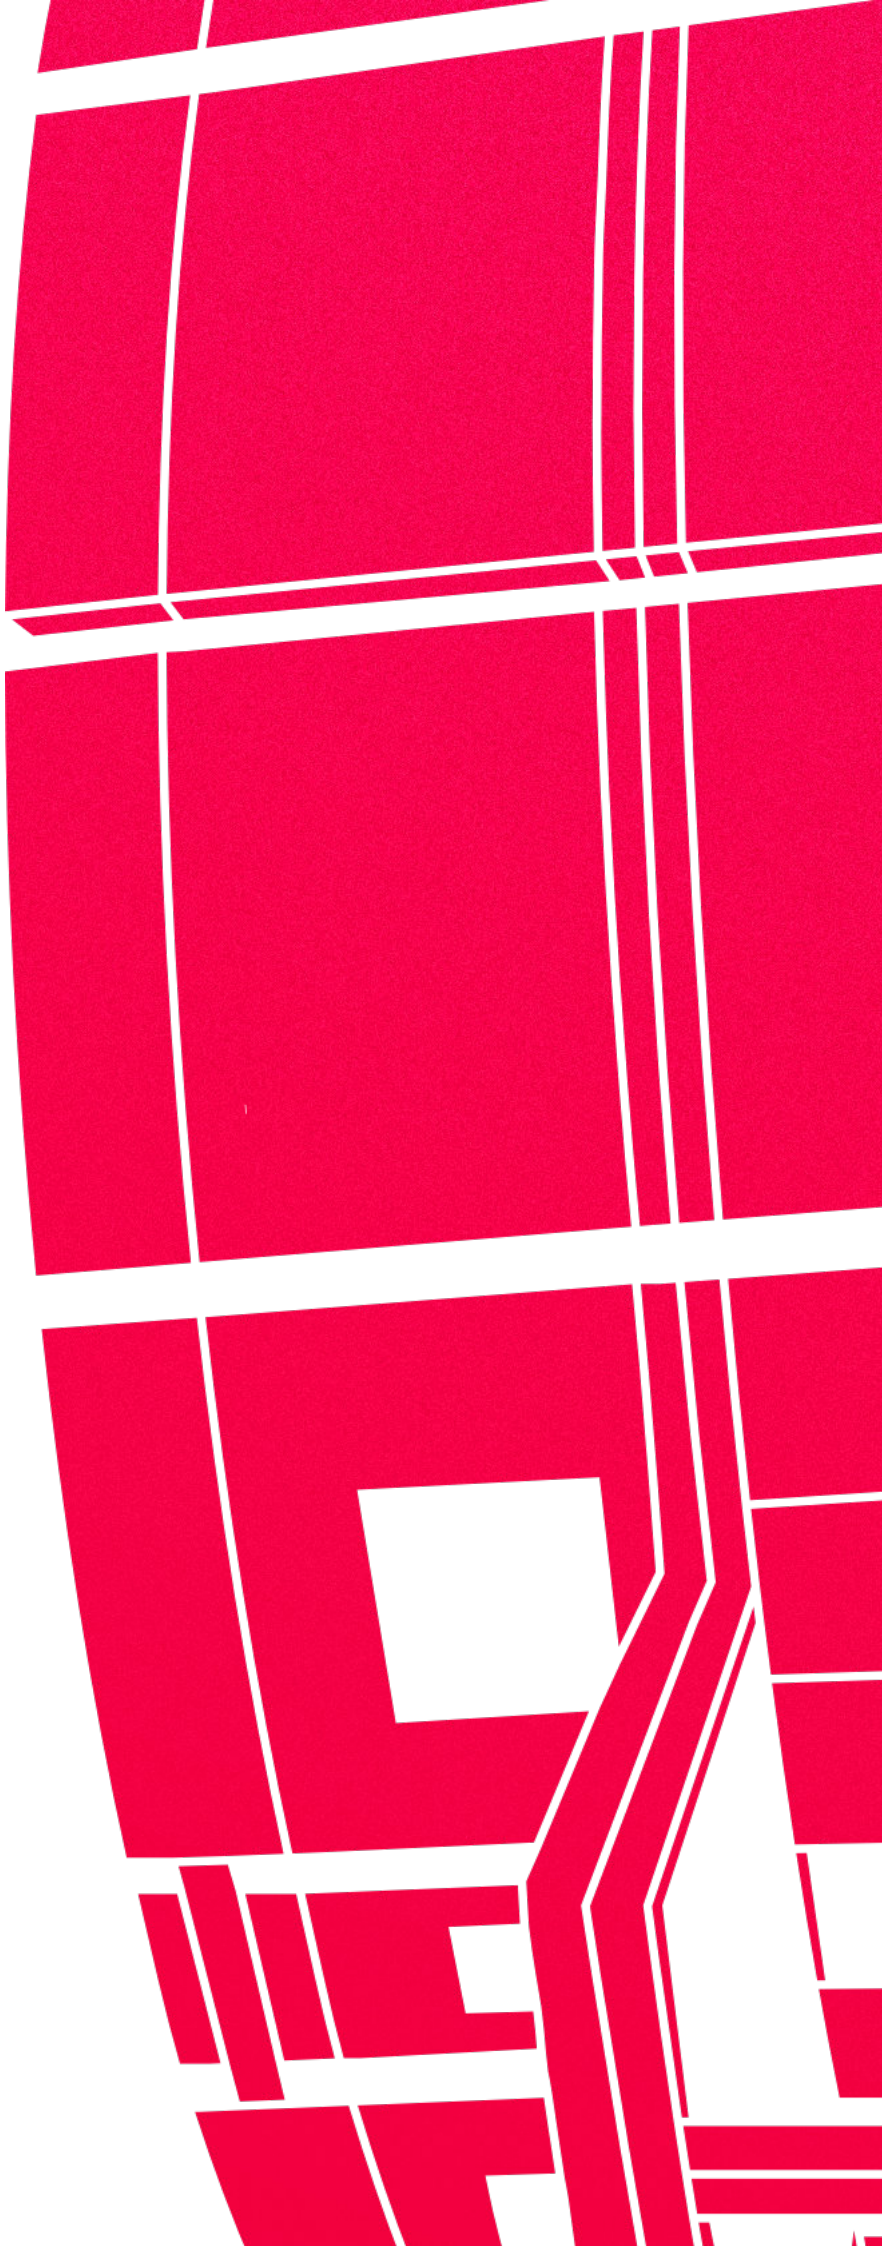

The Avalon Project is an archive built by the Yale Law Library for law documents ranging from the ancient era till modern time. It contains reports, constitutions, treaties, etc. Also contains a collection of documents related to the Nuremberg trials.

That's it.

That's the end of the guide.

Hope at least the stuff here was useful!
